Our 3-Part Approach

Our process consists of three essential phases to optimize learning and development outcomes in alignment to your aspirations. We identify organizational goals and conduct a skills gap analysis, working closely with leaders and stakeholders to define clear learning objectives. Together we design a flexible, training strategy, selecting topics, methods, and timelines that meet your needs. As training is delivered, we provide ongoing support to help learning initiatives stay in lockstep with continuously evolving industry standards, driving long-term success.

1. Assess

Identify your unique training needs

2. Deliver

Create a flexible, blended training strategy

3. Reinforce

Create a culture of learning with ongoing support

Step 1 - Assess

Training Needs Assessment

At the core of our approach is assisting organizations in evaluating their training needs. A well-executed training needs assessment serves as the guiding compass for an organization's learning journey, ensuring that each training initiative is purposeful, efficient, and aligned with broader business goals. This not only enables us to design focused training programs but also aids organizations in effectively allocating resources, optimizing the impact of their learning and development efforts.

1   Identify Organizational Goals and Needs

2   Conduct a Skills Gap Analysis

3   Engage with Leaders and Stakeholders on Direction

4   Set Clear Learning Objectives

Our relationships with industry-leading partners empower us to stay at the fore front of industry trends and advancements. These collaborative partnerships allow us access to cutting-edge technologies, resources, and insights to better anticipate and address the skills needed to keep pace with the rapidly evolving landscape.

> " When our firm began a search for a comprehensive Project Management curriculum vendor, Educate 360 quickly separated themselves as a premier choice. From our very first meeting, our dedicated Business Development Director and the Educate 360 team displayed an elite level of professionalism, customer understanding, and Project Management expertise. They acutely listened to our needs and vision, collaborated closely with our team, and swiftly provided top tier content that our professionals found to be both insightful and impactful."
